BIOGRAPHIES

PHILIP GLASS composes music for opera, film, theater, dance, chorus, and his own ensemble. A graduate of Juilliard, Mr. Glass has received numerous commissions and awards, including a composer-in-residence grant from the Ford Foundation, a Rockefeller Fellowship, and a Fulbright Scholarship, which enabled him to study with Nadia Boulanger in Paris.

His commissions include the opera Satyagraha (for the City of Rotterdam, 1980), which premiered in Holland and subsequently was performed at the Brooklyn Academy of Music in 1981 as part of the Next Wave series. A new production of Satyagraha was featured in the 1982-83 season of the Stuttgart Opera.

Philip Glass's most celebrated collaboration was with stage director/designer Robert Wilson on the opera Einstein on the Beach, which premiered at the Avignon Festival in 1976 and toured throughout Europe, culminating in two sold-out performances at the Metropolitan Opera House. Akhmatov, Mr. Glass's third full opera, has been commissioned by the Stuttgart Opera for a world premiere in March 1984.

On October 4, 1982, the film Koyaanisqatsi, with a score by Mr. Glass, premiered at Radio City Music Hall as a New York Film Festival selection. His first film score was North Star: Mark Di Suvero, and Mr. Glass is the subject of a biographical film by British filmmaker Peter Greenaway (The Draughtsman's Contract) which premiered in the fall of 1983 on British television.

Philip Glass is a CBS Masterworks recording artist, the first composer to be offered this contract since Aaron Copland. Glassworks was his first Masterworks release. The second recording, The Photographer, was released in March 1983. Earlier recorded works include Music in Twelve Parts, Music in Similar Motion, and Music with Changing Parts. Einstein on the Beach and Dance 1 and 3 will be re-released by CBS Masterworks in 1984.

JOANNE AKALAITIS is a founding member of Mabou Mines and, since 1970, has worked both as a director and an actress with the company. Her productions for the company of Cascando, Dressed Like an Egg, Southern Exposure, and Dead End Kids, A History of Nuclear Power, have all won Obie awards. Her production of Request Concert at the Women's Interart Center won a Drama Desk Award in 1981. Ms. Akalaitis received a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1977-78 and a CAPS award for multimedia theater in 1980. She is the recipient of the Rosamund Gilder Award for outstanding theater achievement in 1981 and a Rockefeller and NEA grant (1982-83) for a collaboration with Jon Gibson on an opera about Darwin. Currently she is the recipient of a Rockefeller playwriting grant for residency at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles. JoAnne Akalaitis has been working in various capacities in theater most of her life and hopes to continue to do so.

book, Dance in America, commissioned by the WNET television series, will be published by E. P. Dutton in the fall of 1984. As a performer, he has danced with choreographers Jane Comfort, Bill T. Jones, and Garry Reigenborn, and has sung with composers Des McAnuff and Laurie Anderson; as editor and dramaturge for Laurie Anderson's United States: Parts I-IV, which premiered at BAM in February 1983, he coauthored a number of monologues and texts to music. The Photographer/Far from the Truth is his second work for the theater; an earlier play, War Babies, will be developed in workshop at the Mark Taper Theater Lab in Los Angeles later this year.

DAVID GORDON has worked in the dance field for over 20 years. He danced in the companies of James Waring and Yvonne Rainer in the 1960s and made performance works during that period at the Judson Dance Theater. In the early 1970s he performed regularly with the Grand Union. He now makes works for dance companies in the United States and Europe. He is artistic director of the Pick Up Co., a performance ensemble which includes about half a dozen of the same people and additional performers as needed for a given project. The Pick Up Co. performs regularly in New York City and has toured the United States and Europe.

In May 1980, David Gordon's work was included in the Dance in America broadcast "Beyond the Mainstream." He is one of seven artists featured in Michael Blackwood's film Making Dances. In the spring of 1982, David Gordon began his own experiments in the video field, by making, in collaboration with videographer Dennis Diamond, a new work entitled T.V. Reel. This work incorporated the use of video, projected on advent screens, within the context of live performance. In the summer of 1982, Mr. Gordon further pursued his interest in video by codirecting and coediting a half-hour videotape entitled 10 Minute T.V. with Edward Steinberg. In the spring of 1983, he worked in collaboration with producer Kathryn Esher and Twin Cities Public Television to create a 30-minute program including dancers from the Pick Up Co. and the New Dance Ensemble (Minneapolis, Minnesota), entitled "Limited Partnership." The program aired in the autumn 1983.

He has received Tony, Drama Desk, Joseph Maharam, Obie, and Outer Critics Circle awards. As a designer for dance, he has worked for American Ballet Theatre, the Joffrey, and New York City Ballet. WENDALL K. HARRINGTON has created projections for several Broadway shows, most notably They're Playing Our Song and My One and Only. In addition to her theatrical work, she and her company, Luminous! Productions, Inc., produce multimedia projects for industrial clients. ## MOLISSA FENLEY: YOU MIGHT CALL HER AN ATHLETE

"If the woman of the eighties is, as Time magazine said a few weeks back, well-muscled and athletic, self-made for endurance and speed and grace and, yes, sexiness, then Molissa Fenley is a dancer for the decade."—Newsday

Dancers often complain that while they are appreciated as artists, they are rarely respected as athletes. No one witnessing the dancing of Molissa Fenley is likely to make that omission. Fenley's dancing is distinguished by two elements most closely associated with athletic competition: speed and endurance. She amazes her audiences by rocketing around the stage for over an hour at a time, virtually nonstop, expressing her personal vocabulary of leaps, kicks, spins, and evocative gestures.

Born in Las Vegas and raised in Nigeria, Fenley combines the manic pace and athletic obsession of contemporary America with the rhythmic, expressive movements of the Third World to create a true dance for the eighties.

She has performed her artistic feats of endurance at the Kitchen Center in New York, the Holland Festival, the American Dance Festival, and Britain's Dance Umbrella, as well as festivals in Germany, France, Switzerland, and Austria. Her most recent work, Hemispheres, was premiered at Brooklyn's Next Wave Festival in October.

Given her dedication to velocity and endurance, it's not surprising that Fenley spends more time running, lifting weights, and working out on Nautilus machines than in the traditional dance studio.

She says of her dancing: "Working at super tempo like I do is a way of challenging myself as an athlete. It has a lot to do with the high energy level that I really thrive on. It's a heightened physiological state, and for me that's a peak experience.

"You see a ballet dancer come out and do an incredible burst-of-energy solo, but it's only for three minutes, and then she's offstage. My aim is to do that burst of energy but maintain it—stay onstage. In order to reach that level of fitness, I had to stop taking classes from other dancers and absorb myself in what I was doing and how I was going to train for it. I was—still am—running all-out, and lifting weights intensively, adding repetitions and weight. After about six months I started realizing that I really could shove myself. I was becoming more interested in speed. Simultaneously, my training was getting to the point where I could rehearse for two hours in the studio, doing really fast movement, and not be totally bushed afterward. It was going beyond all the training and becoming the art.

"Dancing is my asset, my tool for communication. I want to kindle the fire for movement that we as a culture have allowed to go dead. So my dances are about moving at an incredible rate, with lots of energy, doing something that's very artistic, beautiful, and dramatic. When you're totally involved, you feel intermeshed and connected and the theater becomes the magical place it should be."

Critics write of her in awe, as if still breathless from witnessing her marathon-like accomplishments. Here are some samples.

"Her dance is made for her own well-sculpted muscles, so its quality of spontaneity is not surprising. What is surprising is the speed, the dynamic force that propels her into rapid turns that abruptly shift direction, or bouncy leaps that grow progressively higher, or carefree runs across the floor. Her energy level never wavers."—Janice Berman Alexander, Newsday

"We have seen the dance of the future, and it works. Molissa Fenley creates tremendously exciting work that blasts her audience into a new, and brave, world of dance. Her energy and whiplash force are astounding. Nearly every moment is pushed to the physical extreme and every moment counts. She is an original, exciting to watch and, more important, to sense."—Anna Kisselgoff, New York Times

"She moves like a rocket unleashed from its moorings, musters the stamina of an Olympic decathlon competitor and transforms rhythm into the guiding and sole principle of her choreographic universe. The inspiration is athletic rather than philosophical."—Allan Ulrich, San Francisco Examiner

"The overall impression of the dance is that of an intense, virtually nonstop blur of runs, spins, leaps, and hops, of twisting arms and high-kicking legs, all brought together in a sporty, up-tempo presentation that leaves the audience exhilarated—and exhausted."—Roy M. Close, St. Paul Pioneer Press

Molissa Fenley and her company of three dancers will perform in Hancher Loft April 4 and 5. Tickets will go on sale March 12 at the box office or may be ordered now by mail through Programme. Seating is limited.

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS IS THE STAR OF SUMMER REP '84

"Summer Rep '84 will commemorate the career of Tennessee Williams, one of the major international writers of this century and one of the top two American dramatists (with O'Neill)," says Robert Hedley, director of University Theatres. "We think it is fitting to present Williams in Iowa City where he graduated from the University in 1938. We will give theatergoers an opportunity to see and hear his works from all periods—the well-known and the obscure—and to let them see for themselves what a bold and astonishing playwright he was."

This year's Summer Rep will be similar to past years in that an ensemble of actors will appear in all productions, but it will also be a departure from the past in that all plays will be by a single writer.

Scheduled productions in Mabie Theatre will include the classic A Streetcar Named Desire, the lyric Night of the Iguana, and the recent play Clothes for a Summer Hotel.

In addition to these three productions, there will be readings from the early collection of one-acts, American Blues, and from the autobiographical Vieux Carré. On three successive Monday evenings in July, an assortment of films of other Williams plays will also be shown.

The great American classic A Streetcar Named Desire is set in the French Quarter of New Orleans and probes the depths of faded illusions. Blanche DuBois, rapt in a world of beauty and poetry, finds herself lost in a decadent society personified by her sister Stella's brutally sensuous husband, Stanley. In a play that is suspenseful, sometimes humorous, yet grimly realistic, Blanche struggles to hold fast as her poetic dreams slowly unravel to reveal her total disintegration.

Simplicity, compassion, and wistful humor fill the Night of the Iguana, another major Williams work. It is set in a seedy resort hotel in 1940. A lecherous widow runs this hotel in the Mexican jungle. Among her guests is a lustful ex-preacher who looks for God and ends up with girls. In the next room a Nantucket spinster tends her 97-year-old grandfather as they wander the world, scratching out a living in hotel lobbies where the old man recites poetry and she sells quick sketches of his listeners. Among the guests are also a group of lardy Nazis who anxiously await the latest news of the bombing of London. This collection of misfits becomes oddly noble as they reveal their lives and find the courage to begin anew in the world.

Clothes for a Summer Hotel is Williams's "ghost play" from 1980. It is one of his last works and deserves to be more widely known. It is the story of the legendary symbols of the Jazz Age, F. Scott Fitzgerald (author of The Great Gatsby) and his wife Zelda who met in Highland Hospital for the Insane, where Zelda spent her last years in confinement. Williams's crackling dramatization mixes past and present, fact and fiction, to brilliantly illuminate how Scott and Zelda become two halves of a single creative psyche—each part alternately feeding and then devouring the other.

Auditorium Openings

Doors to the lobby and cafe open 45 minutes before curtain time. Doors to the seating area ordinarily open 30 minutes before curtain time.

Seating Policy

Latecomers will be seated at the discretion of the management. As a courtesy to the artists, patrons are requested not to leave the auditorium until all curtain calls or encores are completed and the performers have left the stage. Patrons leaving during a performance will be escorted to an observation booth until an intermission or conclusion of the performance.

Greenroom

The greenroom is located on the river side of the lobby and is the site of free ticketed preperformance discussions in conjunction with selected events. Also a convenient place for meeting artists following a performance. Check with usher for availability of performers.

Coughing and Electronic Watches

The auditorium's acoustics amplify the sounds of coughing and other distracting noises. Patrons are asked to turn off their electronic watch alarms. The use of a handkerchief helps to muffle a cough or sneeze, and cough drops are available from the ushers. Patrons having difficulty controlling a cough may wish to return to the lobby, where an usher can direct them to one of the soundproof observation rooms at the rear of the main floor.

Smoking

While smoking is not permitted in the auditorium, guests who wish to smoke during intermissions are invited to the lobby or mezzanine areas or designated smoking areas of the cafe.

Cameras and Tape Recorders

Because of disturbance to other patrons and in compliance with copyright laws and contractual arrangements with many artists, photographs and recordings may not be taken during a performance. Patrons are requested to check their cameras and tape recorders with the house manager or an usher.

Tours

Tours of the auditorium are conducted at 2:00 p.m. each Sunday and Wednesday, except during University vacation periods. Tours leave from the box office lobby. For special group tours, call 353-6251, allowing a week's advance notice.

Arts Center Outreach

Programs planned through the Arts Center Outreach office take place in communities throughout the state as well as on the campus. Activities can be arranged for special populations. For information about program services, contact Arts Center Outreach, 233 Hancher Auditorium, 353-5267.

Hancher Cafe

Before and after most performances, food and beverages may be purchased in Hancher Cafe on the mezzanine. Beverages are available during intermissions on both the main floor and mezzanine. Food is permitted in the cafe only, and no food or drink is permitted in the auditorium.

The Showcase

The Showcase gift shop is open to patrons before and after all Hancher performances and during intermissions. Staffed by Hancher Guild volunteers, The Showcase features gifts with performing arts themes and associations. It is open to the general public from 1:00-3:00 p.m. Sundays and 2:00-3:00 p.m. Wednesdays.

Services for the Handicapped

Ushers will serve as playbill readers for the sight impaired, if requested in advance at the box office. Patrons who will arrive in wheelchairs are asked to notify the box office at the time of ticket purchase.

Restrooms and Drinking Fountains

Located on either side of the lobby and mezzanine levels.

Lost and Found

If you lose an article during a performance, please ask any usher in a gold coat for assistance. Articles not claimed immediately following the performance will be sent to lost and found at the campus parking office located in the Iowa Memorial Union parking ramp.

Coat Check

During inclement weather, coat check service is provided. Ask an usher which coat check areas are open.

Parking

Parking is free in the University lots surrounding Hancher. Overflow traffic may park in designated parking areas in City Park, but parking on the grass in City Park is prohibited.
